Monthly, we send you an updated social media guide on the High Impact Practices in Family Planning (HIPs) with the purpose of (1) increasing awareness and use of the HIP briefs, and (2) generating traffic on the HIP website. This month we are highlighting a new call for resources that pertain to the scale-up and implementation of SBC and Service Delivery HIPs. More details about the project and corresponding social media messaging can be found below:

We want to hear from you! The High Impact Practices in family planning are designed to help connect FP/RH professionals to family planning practices that have demonstrated impact. But once best-practices are identified, diverse challenges regarding implementation and scale-up remain. In a recent analysis, we identified an expressed need from the FP/RH professional community for additional supportive tools to aid in the implementation and scale-up of the HIPs, and to respond — we need your help!

The ask: Are you working in the field of family planning and reproductive health, and using one or more of the High Impact Practices in your work? If so, we want to know what resources have been helpful for you in implementing and scaling up these practices, and that would be applicable across regions for your FP/RH colleagues around the globe. To contribute resources, please complete the submission form available at the link here.

Please note: The open comment period ends on April 28, 2023.

If your resources are accepted in the final list, your name and organization will be published in an Acknowledgements section of the final published document. Additional benefits to you, if your resources are accepted, include the possibility of having your name, photo, role, and organization featured as a project contributor in an FP insight email that is distributed to a global FP/RH audience of over 1,500 individuals.
